

Flat Stanley Project Letter Example

Dear Families,

Our class is currently enjoying the book Flat Stanley—a fun and imaginative story about a boy who becomes flat and goes on exciting journeys by mail after being squashed by a bulletin board.

As a fun extension of the story, each student will soon be creating and mailing their own “Flat Self” to a family member or friend. We’d love for the recipient to live outside of our local area to make the experience even more interesting. The farther the Flat Kids travel, the more engaging our adventure map will be! However, to ensure a timely return, please select someone who resides within the continental United States.

When helping your child choose a recipient, please pick someone who would be happy to participate and write back about what your child’s flat traveler did during the visit. Receiving this response is an important part of completing the project.

Kindly fill out the form below and return it to school no later than _____.

If you have any questions or need more details, don’t hesitate to reach out to me at _____ (phone) or _____ (email).

Thank you for your support!
